DR. GARY BONNER

Those who have attended Dr. Bonner's seminars describe their experience as "challenging", "inspirational", "stretching", "life-changing", "a week of unbelievable growth." As conductors return to their schools and churches, they begin to develop a changed choir, which sounds better, sings with greater feeling and understanding, and demonstrates increased respect and appreciation for the conductor. Join the more than 700 conductors who have studied with Dr. Bonner, some of whom return year after year. It is an intense week with 50 hours of video-taped, personalized conducting instruction, a class size which is limited to 22, and introduction to 50 of the year's best new choral selections.

Hear the voices of those who have participated in the Conducting Seminars:

Dr. Bonner is a trusted source of great encouragement. For many consecutive years he has become my unofficial continuing education music teacher of choral music: Conducting and Leadership with a capital "L". Doc has unique and well-proven depth of experience in leadership, conducting, musicianship, and excellence in performance, spanning several decades up into this present season. It is exciting to keep learning and make great music . . . whatever our age and experience. Doc's relational coaching principles have changed my life for the better. Keep dreaming the dream for you and your people!

Dr. Bonner's conducting seminars have been instrumental in not only my growth as a conductor of college students, but in the development of my own leadership style. Every seminar has come with valuable lessons that I have been able to apply in areas of relationship building, leadership, entrepreneurship and growth, and recruiting strategies.

Music Department Chair; William Jessup University, Rocklin, CA

As a seminar student of Dr. Bonner's choral conducting seminars over the last 10 years, I have experienced an educational process that continues to refine and invigorate my approach to choral music, relationships with instrumental and vocal musicians, and church music ministry. Whether you're leading a school choir of any academic level, community chorus, or a church choir of any size, Dr. Bonner's choral conducting seminar is such that you're enhanced with the tools necessary to progress in the music-making process. Each seminar is filled with indescribable energy that is dynamic and contagious!
